We go the distance to serve you.

Brett Barton has been a commercial lines risk manager for Ross & Associates Insurance Services, Inc. since 2009. With the ever-changing climate of the construction and business industry, it is important to have an agent on your side who fully understands companies and the risks they face. With an in-depth knowledge of the real estate and construction industries, Brett is able to bring his clients a unique perspective, and thus, superior knowledge of their own risk management program. Whether they are a building owner, excavation contractor or recycling facility, Brett has the capability and experience to fill their insurance needs.

Brett has been involved in the real estate development and construction industries since his teenage years. Having owned and developed multiple single family lots in the Portland metro area, he has worked with builders, site contractors, city officials, banks and everyone in between to complete these projects. During this time, Brett was also involved in rental property management, single family home construction projects, and has even traveled overseas to help with a condo development project. Although his primary focus is the insurance industry, Brett is still actively involved in real estate investing and developing.

Brett stays busy outside of the office and thoroughly enjoys tuna fishing, snow shoeing, hiking, camping and most anything else outdoors.
